

Your career awaits!

Eastern Aleutian Tribes is seeking qualified applicants for a Behavioral Health Aide Trainee.

Working together to promote healthy communities

Working collaboratively with a dynamic team, the Behavioral Health Aide Trainee strives to improve the behavioral health and wellness of EAT's communities. The incumbent serves to orchestrate or facilitate care; he/she schedules patients, ensures patient comfort or safety before, during and post session, helps lead or facilitate sessions, and performs the necessary follow up. He/she takes a pro-active stance on identifying community needs, planning and organizing educational/preventative events, and duplicating throughout the region if necessary.

Respectful but assertive communication, trustworthiness and commitment to the community are requirements for successful patient outcomes. Likewise, the incumbent's determination, willingness to learn, and patience throughout the certification process are paramount to his/her success in this program. Travel and learning, both formal and informal, certainly are consistent in this trainee role, and the need for enthusiasm and dedication to the health and wellness of a community is constant.
